

Dear Friends,

I am honored to represent the Kellogg Company and the Native American Business Alliance as we host the 9th annual NABA Fund National business/Procurement Conference. The Kellogg Company is committed to support the supplier diversity process and NABA has been an important part of our support. We were honored to receive the “Corporation of the Year” award in 2007. Additionally, we also hosted a cultural event for NABA and we look forward to continuing our support to this important organization and their mission.

I come to you in a very challenging year. This means it is even more important that we prepare an event that adds value to the corporations and Native businesses. Jackie, the Conference Committee and Lee have done an exceptional job to make sure the event will provide value and we hope you will join us at the Soaring Eagle Casino and Resort located on the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Community where you will be intrigued, moved and provoked while attending this unique event. This conference is open to ALL types of businesses and you don't have to be an MBE to attend.

I am excited to serve as the Chairperson to this fabulous event and Kellogg is honored to be associated with an organization like the Native American Business Alliance.

Warmest regards,

Cathy Kutch,
Director of Supplier Diversity
Kellogg Company
